

Office International
de l'Eau

Funding IWRM, including Adaptation to Climate Change

Alain BERNARD
a.bernard@oieau.fr

Brasilia – 21 Março 2018

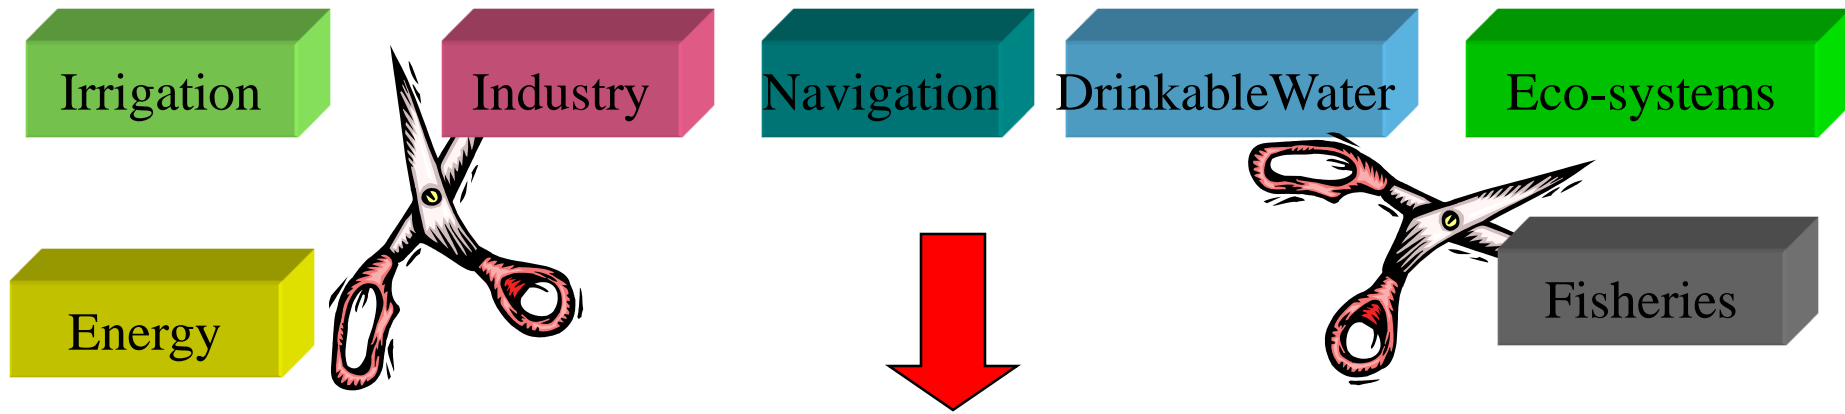

Office
International
de l'Eau

Finance resilience and adaptation to climate change

SWITCH FROM A SECTORAL MANAGEMENT

TO AN INTEGRATED MANAGEMENT

A intersectorial approach of all rational uses in order to reach a better allocation of water resources,

Office
International
de l'Eau

Governance

HARD

Programmes of activities, investments, agenda, costs, indicators ...

SOFT

Governance, Planning including resilience to CC
Participation, Transparency,
Intersectorial, IWRM,
Research for funding,
Ownership,
...

- French experience: how the river basin action plan is funded in a water agency, including adaptation measures ?
 - example
- Guidelines for a sustainable financial strategy for a river basin action plan:
 - a step by step strategy

*Office International
de l'Eau*

Office International
de l'Eau

FRANCE

- 550 000 sq km

- 60 M inhabitants

The 6 basins

Office International de l'Eau. Direction de la Coopération Internationale

Polluter-pays and user-pays principles

Payments for Ecosystems
Services

“Who protects water resources or depollutes receives financial support”

Financial support

« a mutualised service for water »

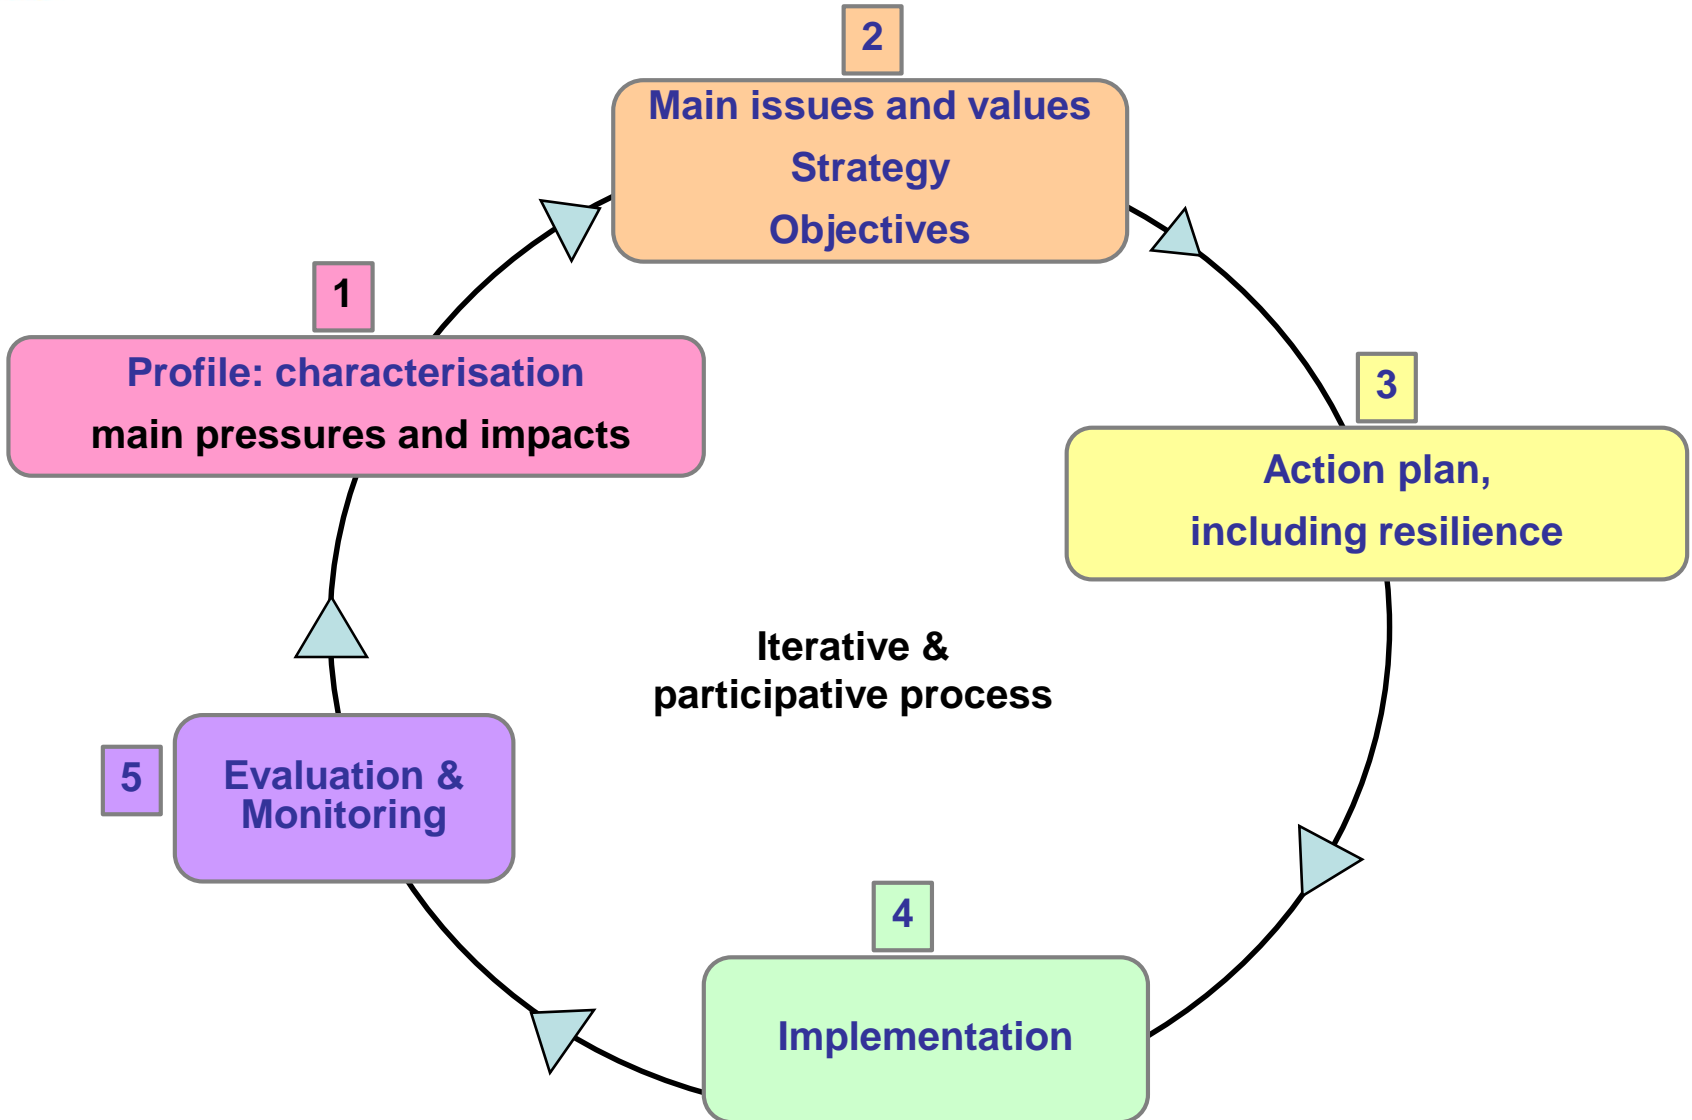

Water users

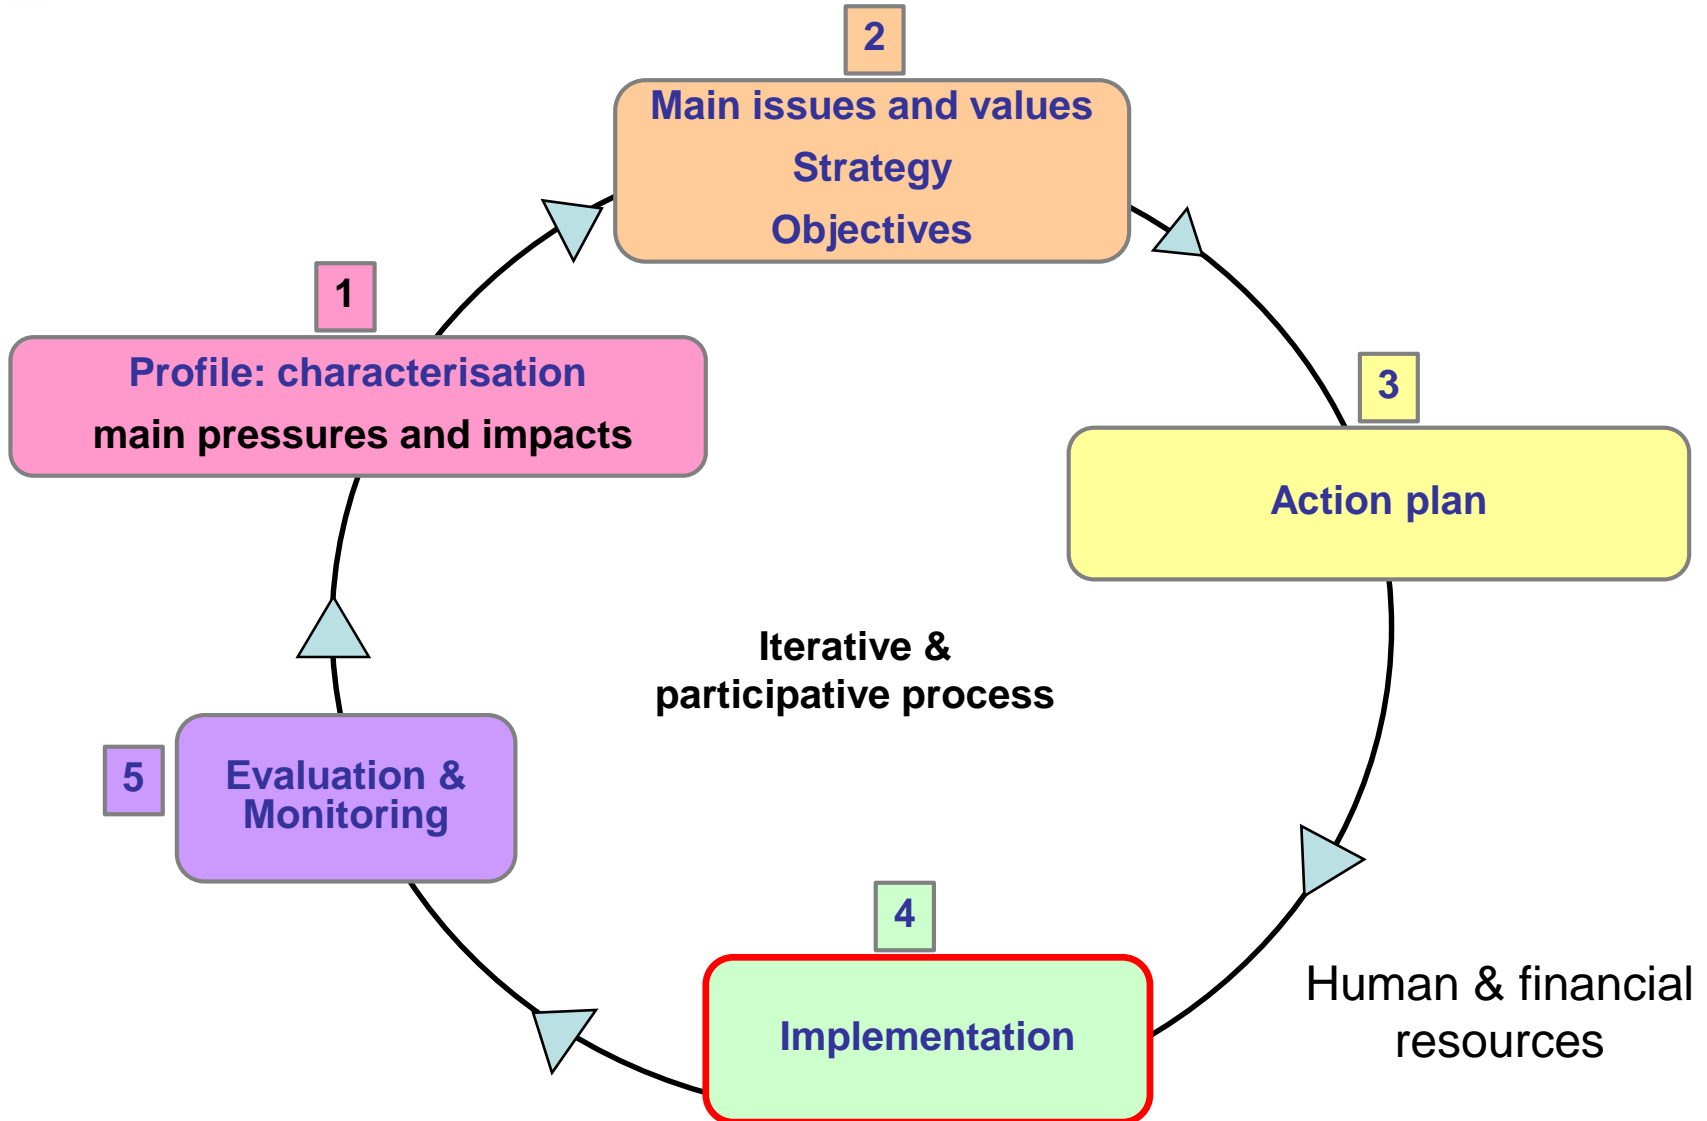

Limiting factors

- Económical rentability of productive sectors
- Social acceptabilty
- Political will

When is the funding strategy necessary in the IWRM process?

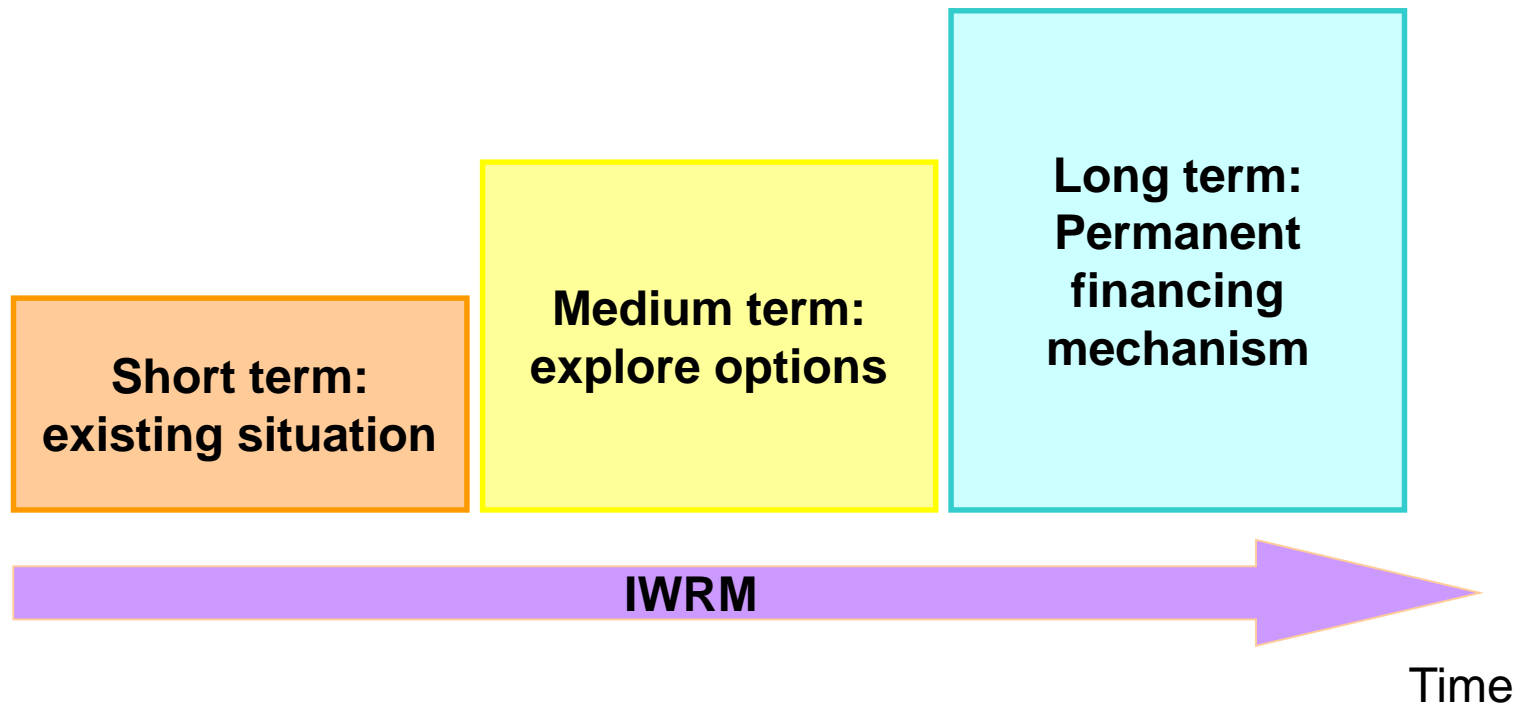

When is the funding strategy necessary in the IWRM process?

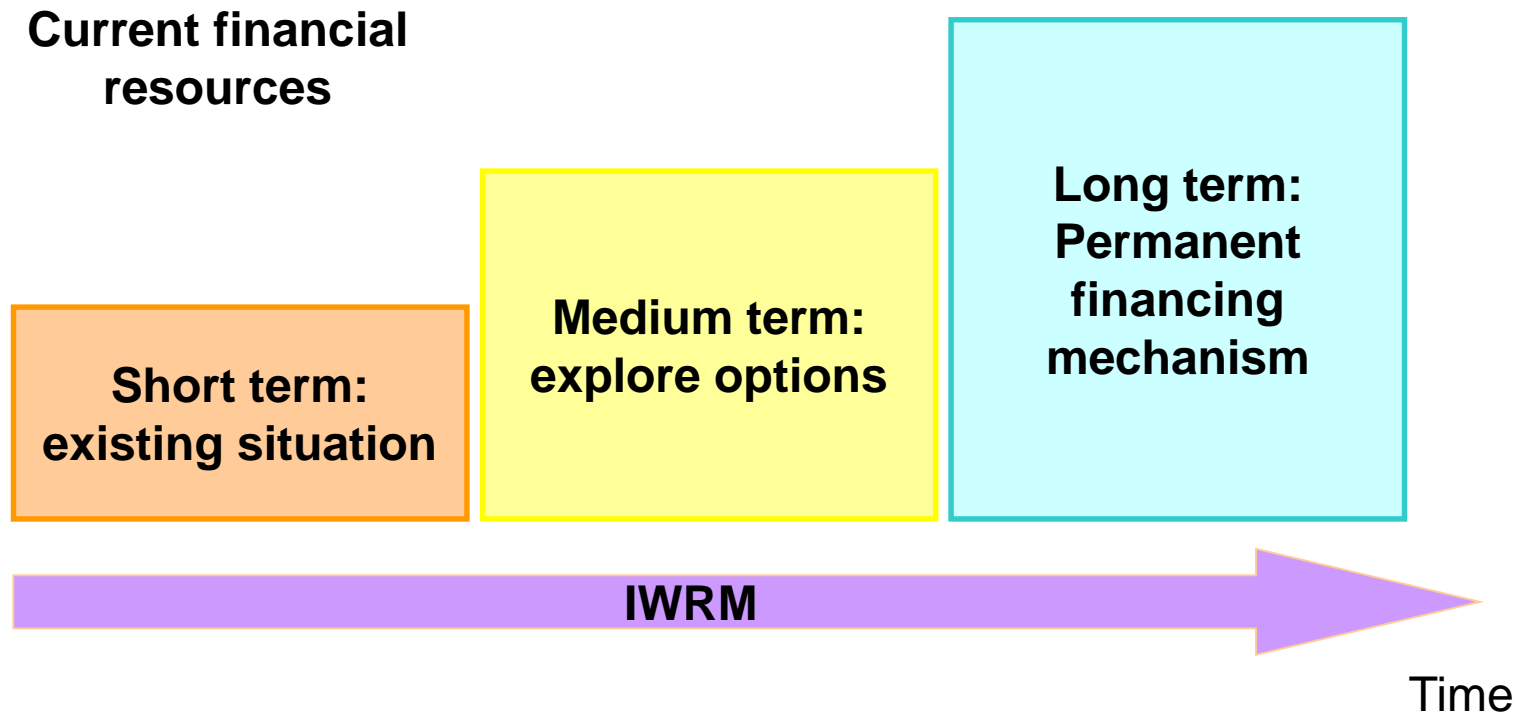

Funding strategy guidelines

- Key questions: How to finance an action plan?
- Make it step by step!

SHORT TERM: existing situation

MEDIUM TERM: existing situation

MEDIUM TERM: existing situation

Office
International
de l'Eau

IWRM is not so easy to implement ...

Don't throw the baby out with the bathwater !

Water is life.

If you keep the hand open, you can save it.

If you close the fist, you loose it.

Jean Giono – L'eau vive (1943)

Alain BERNARD
a.bernard@oieau.fr

Brasilia – March 21th 2018